To Whom It May Concern:

This will attest to the positive experience we have had with the EcoloBlue 28 liter atmospheric water generation system. We have installed one in our kitchen area and it has been a complete success.

We originally considered the EcoloBlue system as part of a cost saving effort. However, it has provided several other tangible benefits we are very excited about.

Although we have had the system for a few short months, we have noticed a significant reduction in our office humidity and improved air quality.

The system generates enough water daily that we completely replaced our previous water cooler which depended on the 5-gallon jugs. In just one year we will save enough on water expenses to pay for the entire system! And, we no longer have to store those unsightly water jugs in our office.

I recommend the EcoloBlue 28 system to all organizations with a commitment to resource efficiency as well as financial responsibility. Our employees have been very pleased with the system and our organization is proud to support products promoting environmental sustainability.

Sincerely,
